Our Vision, Mission, and Aims

Vision

An Ireland that supports all those on the margins and upholds their rights to full inclusion in society. Peter McVerry Trust is committed to reducing homelessness, the harm caused by substance misuse and social disadvantage.

Mission

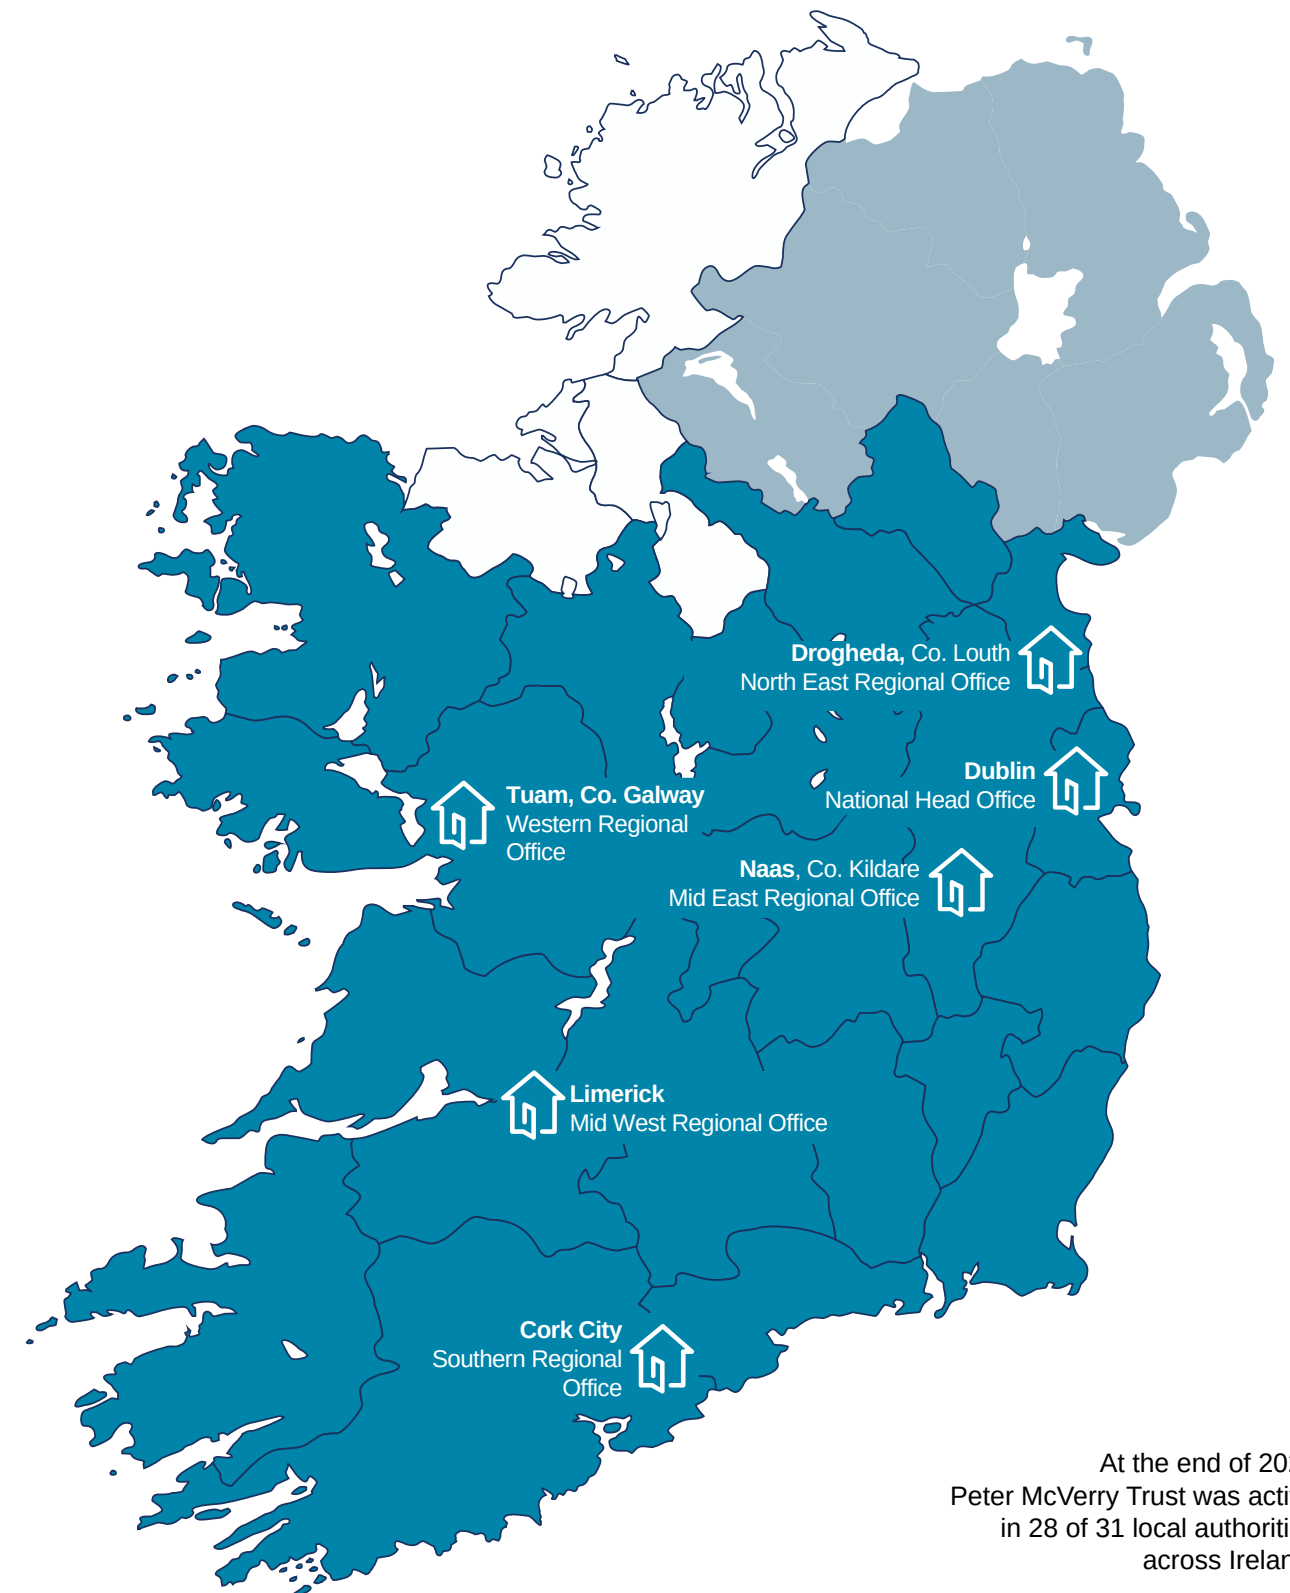

Peter McVerry Trust provides low threshold entry services, primarily to younger people and vulnerable adults with complex needs, and offers pathways out of homelessness based on the principles of the Housing First model. To target those most marginalised in society and offer a safe, challenging and supportive environment through our service provision.

Aims

To treat participants with warmth and respect and actively encourage them to be involved in all aspects of their own support plan. To offer a comprehensive prevention package of support to reduce the likelihood of homelessness to those leaving care, those leaving treatment, those leaving prison or other institutions and those whose accommodation is vulnerable. To offer a comprehensive package of support that will provide the best opportunity possible for them and assist them in planning a pathway out of homelessness or drug use, or if they continue to use drugs, to assist them towards some level of stabilisation in order to live a life of dignity, with respect and opportunity. To assist each person to re-establish himself or herself in the community and move towards greater independence.

Areas of Activity 2022

At the end of 2022 Peter McVerry Trust was active in 28 of 31 local authorities across Ireland.

The three local authorities where the charity is not active are Donegal, Leitrim, Sligo.

I smile because it has given me more than a roof over my head, it has given me the confidence to be me.

Riva has been in and out of homelessness since she was 17. In 2022, Peter McVerry Trust gave her the keys to her own home in Cork city.

Message from the Founder, Fr Peter McVerry

The word 'crisis' usually refers to a serious breakdown of a normally functioning system. In that sense, then, we do not have a housing crisis as we never had a normally functioning housing system. The dominant view today is that if the housing system is broken, it is a temporary crisis that can be resolved through targeted, isolated measures. Housing is seen as the domain of experts like developers, architects or economists. The provision of adequate housing is seen as a technical problem and can be solved by better planning, new regulations and better construction technology. Certainly, technical improvements in the housing system are possible, and some are much needed, but the crisis is deeper than that.

There is a conflict between housing as a living, social space and housing as an instrument for profitmaking – a conflict between housing as home and housing as real estate. Our housing 'crisis' results from a conflict between the pursuit of profit in housing and its use for living. Most often, the former wins. Housing is the world's new currency; it has become a safe deposit box for wealth. Our 'crisis' is not the result of the system breaking down but of the system working as it is intended! For thousands of households, 'crisis' describes precisely the chaos, fear and powerlessness that they experience.

The solution to homelessness is to provide people with a home. Peter McVerry Trust has over 1,000 apartments, in 28 local authority areas, where we can give a homeless person a home for life. The Housing First programme is over ten years old and has been adopted by Government. In 2022, the Housing Agency launched a new National Office for Housing First. Housing First is the priority for Peter McVerry Trust going forward. It has proved to be very successful, as almost 90% of those homeless people, with the right level of support, continue to maintain their home indefinitely. During 2022, we opened our Western Regional Office in Tuam, to join our regional offices in Cork, Galway, Limerick, Kildare and Louth.

During 2022, we welcomed the appointment of Deirdre-Ann Barr as Chairperson. She brings a wealth of expertise and experience to the job. We had a Housing First themed garden at Bloom which won a Gold Medal and the People's Choice Award. It tried to represent the path of a homeless person from the streets to their own home.

There is a glaring contradiction in the existence of thousands of vacant homes which blight the streets of every city and town in Ireland and the number of homeless people with nowhere to live. Peter McVerry Trust warmly welcomed the Vacant Homes Tax announced in Budget 2023. We wait in anticipation of it being implemented!

The first Sky Up Digital Hub in Ireland was launched at our young persons' service in Dublin 8, as part of Sky Ireland's partnership with Peter McVerry Trust.

Our Christmas Carol Concert, which is always packed out, returned after two years due to Covid-19. It was headlined by Eurovision winner Paul Harrington.

Peter McVerry Trust secured the "Excellent in Healthcare Management" award at the Irish Healthcare awards for our response to Covid-19 over the previous two years.

I received the 2022 McAuley Medal from Mary Immaculate College in Limerick, presented by President Higgins. However, as I often say, the secret of success is to get other people to do all the work, so this award is really due to all the staff and management of Peter McVerry Trust. Without their commitment to reducing homelessness, and their compassion for those we work with, nothing would be achieved. We are fortunate to have such a dedicated team, and I wish to thank them for all the work they do for homeless people.

Fr Peter McVerry SJ

Foreword by the Deputy CEO, Liz Peña

In 2022, Peter McVerry Trust continued to respond with dignity, and urgency, to the needs of people who are at risk or impacted by homelessness. As Covid-19 restrictions began to finally lift, we were presented with the new challenge of the war in Ukraine and the arrival of thousands of Ukrainian refugees fleeing violence. As Deputy CEO, I'm pleased that we continued to provide high quality, professional supports and services for those who are vulnerable and on the margins of our society.

At the time of the Russian invasion of Ukraine in February 2022, Peter McVerry Trust was already providing social care supports in International Protection and Accommodation Service (IPAS) operated hotels to new arrivals seeking asylum here. That enabled us to provide immediate support to Ukrainians fleeing the war.

In 2022, we supported 3,874 Ukrainian refugees across seven local authority areas, including the opening of two new facilities for families, accommodation and support for unaccompanied minors, hotel based social supports for new arrivals to the country, assessment supports pending accommodation, and logistical supports to access pledged accommodation. We supported 687 people into Pledged Accommodation in 2022.

Our commitment to protecting and assisting vulnerable individuals from Ukraine did not compromise our ongoing work to shelter, house, and support those affected by homelessness across Ireland.

Our efforts in providing shelter and support for vulnerable individuals affected by homelessness remained central in 2022. We worked closely with local authorities, the Dublin Region Homeless Executive, and the Department of Housing, Local Government, and Heritage to deliver these essential services. Throughout 2022, we provided emergency homeless accommodation in eight local authorities across Ireland. We supported a total of 3,714 individuals, encompassing both our adult services and family homeless accommodation. Among them, 217 families with 528 children were supported in our family hubs.

Peter McVerry Trust is proud to be a key contributor, alongside our partners, in supporting Ireland's Housing First services in 2022. The Housing First program is a key initiative in ending long-term homelessness for those with complex health and mental health needs. The program ensures that our most vulnerable experiencing homelessness are able to receive a permanent home and the essential wraparound health and social supports they need.

Our organisation continues to seek ways to improve and advance the delivery of Housing First in Ireland. In March 2022, Peter McVerry Trust attended the launch of Ireland's first Housing First National Office by the Housing Agency. The new office marked an important milestone in the coordinated roll out of Housing First across Ireland.

The work I mentioned earlier, as well as what we've covered in this report, wouldn't be possible without the support and partnership of our stakeholders in the public sector. I would like to acknowledge the funding we receive to provide services in collaboration with Local Authorities and on behalf of the State.

I'd like to express our sincere gratitude to the Department of Housing, Local Government, and Heritage for their continued financial support.

We also extend our appreciation to our key partners, including the Local Authorities, Department of Justice, Department of Children, Equality, Disability, Integration and Youth, the Dublin Region Homeless Executive, HSE, and Tusla, all of whom play a pivotal role in the delivery of Peter McVerry Trust services.

Last but certainly not least, I extend a heartfelt thanks to our donors, who, despite the many challenges facing Irish society in 2022, continued to be remarkably generous. Your unwavering support for our mission is truly valued, and as Deputy CEO, I trust that you can see the impact of your generosity in the services we provide.

Communications and Advocacy

Peter McVerry Trust welcomed the introduction of a no-fault eviction ban as a vital part of tackling the increasing homelessness figures this year, while also welcoming cost of living measures such as the energy credit which was vital to help lessen the pressure our tenants were facing into in the winter of 2022.

We secured high-profile media coverage throughout the year. Our work bringing vacant properties back to life as social housing featured on RTÉ Eco Eye as well as the RTÉ documentary, Róisín Murphy's Big City Plan, showcasing Peter McVerry Trust projects in Dublin and Louth.

Peter McVerry Trust presented its first Show Garden at Ireland's largest gardening festival, Bord Bia Bloom 2022. 'Pathways to Home' was designed to represent the journey from homelessness and sleeping rough to living in a safe and secure home. The garden was designed by Seán O'Malley and Oisín Griffin of Griffin Landscape Architecture and was delivered in partnership with the Housing Agency.

'Pathways to Home' secured a gold medal, the highest accolade at the festival, and also won the public voted People's Choice Award.

In 2005, Fr McVerry and the then Board of Directors took a strategic decision to appoint the charity's first CEO who was tasked with developing the organisation in response to the growing homeless need.

The CEO's salary is in line with HSE pay scales and is aligned to point 4 for a HSE Director Regional Health Officer post under the Lansdowne Road Agreement. Peter McVerry Trust does not pay health insurance or provide the CEO with a company car nor is a fuel card provided. Peter McVerry Trust pays a 16% employer contribution to the CEO's defined contribution scheme. There are no top-ups paid to the CEO, senior management team or indeed any Peter McVerry Trust staff member.

Peter McVerry Trust pays travel expenses in line with civil service rates to specific post holders who travel across sites and services around the country. The CEO is subject to this scheme. These are signed off by the company secretary and calculations are checked by the Peter McVerry Trust auditors.
